These books were developed for all the individuals who have an idea for a business and want to fulfill a dream of entrepreneurship. In the majority of cases, people prepare business plans for two specific reasons:

1. To prove the viability of an idea or an entrepreneurial dream of business;
2. To prove the need for financial capital from lenders or investors and supporting evidence for repayment.

The structure in these books give the planner an orderly and logical outline for developing an idea for a business into a possible workable concept. It is also important to remember that preparing a business plan may not only prove the viability of an idea, but it may also show that the idea has no opportunity to succeed. The latter outcome gives the planner a chance to make radical changes to the idea so it may be brought to fruition.
